

Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1) that Julian Dunne is the killer, but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He was on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1), now he's in the middle of it all! Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+2), if he dares ask. Speaking of favours, he feels bad about swindling Frank and doesn't like Maude at all. He's staying clear of those twins. It's good to have a friend on the inside (+1). It's time to figure things out (+1), starting with Amos Zagg is a scary, evil prick. You can frighten Willy or boss him around – but he won't ever believe in you (+1).

Pool = 1

Text log

Original: Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1), but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He's on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1). Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+1), if he dares ask.

Pool = 5

After session 1: Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1), but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He's on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1). Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+1), if he dares ask. Speaking of favours, he feels bad about swindling Frank and doesn't like Maude at all.

Pool = 5

After session 2: Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1), but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He's on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1). Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+1), if he dares ask. Speaking of favours, he feels bad about swindling Frank and doesn't like Maude at all. He's staying clear of those twins. It's good to have a friend on the inside.

Pool = 5

After session 3: Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1), but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He's on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1). Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+1), if he dares ask. Speaking of favours, he feels bad about swindling Frank and doesn't like Maude at all. He's staying clear of those twins. It's good to have a friend on the inside (+1). It's time to figure things out, starting with Amos Zagg is a scary, evil prick.

Pool = 3

After session 4: Willy is running scared (+1), paranoid on pills (+1). He was just a white-collar schnook (+1) and never wanted to know this terrible secret (+1), but as usual, everything he does screws up everything (+2). He's on the streets, living on favours and scams (+1). Bloody Jezebel still owes him big-time (+1), if he dares ask. Speaking of favours, he feels bad about swindling Frank and doesn't like Maude at all. He's staying clear of those twins. It's good to have a friend on the inside (+1). It's time to figure things out, starting with Amos Zagg is a scary, evil prick. You can frighten Willy or boss him around – but he won't ever believe in you.

Pool = 4

Notes

Amos Zag, the Circle, Star, aide/killer, Lena Boch, Mayor Watterson, creepy twins, Benny, Maude, Frank, Ray and Polly, Detective O.J. Church, Dubya, Lee Boch (presumably), Julian Dunne (killer/militia type), old photo with Zag, Dunne, and establishment guy

South Wedge, the East End, High Falls, river park, Zagg's ranch/compound